

A schematic diagram of a machine tool. It shows a large, C-shaped structure on the left, which is the headstock, supporting a rotating workpiece. A cutting tool, represented by a small rectangular block with a pointed end, is positioned to the right of the workpiece, held by a tool holder. The tool holder is mounted on a sliding mechanism that allows it to move along a horizontal guide. The entire setup is mounted on a base.

